is an unrealized project from a series of experiments on the topic of 'nothing'. un... got never realized until the call for submission of unrealized projects gave space to it. un... and 'nothing' are part of my unrealized existence as artist.

the prefix un... points to an unfinished business. Something was undone, unrealized. Something unrealized points to a quality which is not shown, not represented or achieved. The prefix un... is a signifier for negation, for a quality in the past or still to come in the future. However, the idea of any un... must be realized and noticed, otherwise it is not understood. This is the act of the completion and realization of the project. The images presented are completed by the viewer. The perception of the unhappened.

un... describes the moment of an intention and a possible realization in the future. un... points to unfulfilledness - to want but not to get something, not to get into becoming. Because it got cancelled due to reasons like weather conditions, law regulations, illness, unforeseen changes.

I understand unrealized projects not as the documentation of wishful thinking.
