

“Otherhedron is a trip. From pole to pole, the object moves around the world like a pebble rolling gently on the ground. Demarcating locations as nodes or points in the globe that, when joined, trace a plane much like one of the sides of Otherhedron.”

— TRIGO IN CORRESPONDENCE WITH PULLEN

OTHERHEDRON / 2012 / Sculpture studies
Scale drawings by LUCY PULLEN

Otherhedron

Media Works, Expeditions, Workshops and Symposia

